

Recent theoretical studies of Molecular-Frame

Photoelectron Angular Distribution

K. Hatada

Department of Physics, University of Toyama

hatada@sci.u-toyama.ac.jp

Molecular-Frame Photoelectron Angular Distribution (MFPAD) enables us to measure the Photoelectron Angular Distribution of molecules as if fixed in space. We have investigated theoretical aspects of MFPAD based on Multiple Scattering Theory. In this talk, we show our recent studies considering to apply ultrashort laser pulses for MFPAD.

References

- [1] F. Ota et al, J. Phys. B 54, 024003 (2021), ibid., 084001, ibid., 244002.
- [2] F. Ota et al, Phys. Chem. Chem. Phys. B 23, 20174 (2021).
- [3] I. Vela-Peréz et al, Phys. Chem. Chem. Phys. B 25, 13784 (2023).